

Letter from Alexander Graham Bell to Sarah Fuller, April 28, 1893

1331 CONNECTICUT AVENUE, WASHINGTON, D.C. April 28th. 1893. Dear Miss Fuller;

At our meeting held here this week we decided to establish the headquarters of the Association in the buildings of the Chicago University — from July 14th., to July 28th., so that the members of the Association who desire to attend the World's Fair, and also at the same time attend the Congress of Instructors of the Deaf, and other Educational Conventions to be held at Chicago immediately after the closing of the Congress may have an opportunity of doing so at reasonable rates. Members can obtain rates and other information upon application to our Secretary, Mr. Westervelt.

We will not attempt to hold a regular Summer Meeting for study, but simply secure accommodations under one roof, and have a large hall or parlor where we can meet socially together at any time. Short addresses will be delivered in the evening, and entertainments of various kinds provided. It is unreasonable to suppose that teachers going to Chicago will be willing or able to undertake much hard work.

The Annual Meeting of the Association will be held on July 19th. This will be simply a business meeting. Mr. Westervelt will issue the necessary circulars at once.

Yours very sincerely, Alexander Graham Bell P.S. Could you some of your pupils or graduates to become members of the Association and join us in Chicago. I shall be glad to place one hundred dollars at your to your in serving presence of good speeches and speech . Wish Miss Housley could be there. By the bye Mr. Greenberger has his resignation as a member of our Board as he has found it impossible to attend our meeting.

Library of Congress

Our meeting the day before were only a meeting of Exec. Committee so we could take no otherwise we would have elected you to fill his place. AGB